ENERTCHAD S.A.

Code of conduct and anti-corruption framework

Version of 20 October 2026. Text published at enertchad.com/ethique-en. EnerTchad S.A. is a company in formation: this document applies today to its founders and representatives. The signed version will be adopted by the Board of Directors when the corporate bodies are set up.

Integrity, before the first contract.

Code of conduct, anti-corruption, human rights, supplier due diligence and a speak-up channel: the integrity base that financial institutions and development lenders expect. The rules that govern how EnerTchad does business — from formation, without exception.

01 · CODE OF CONDUCT

Our code of conduct, in six commitments

Six simple rules, binding on everyone — executives, employees, interns and intermediaries — with no exceptions and no workarounds.

COMMITMENT 1

Business integrity

We only do business we could explain publicly: every contract has a real, documented consideration at market price.

COMMITMENT 2

Zero tolerance for corruption

No payment, gift or advantage to win or keep business, whether private or towards a public official — including so-called facilitation payments.

COMMITMENT 3

Gifts & hospitality

Modest, occasional, transparent: anything beyond the symbolic is declared and recorded in a register — given or received.

COMMITMENT 4

Conflicts of interest

Everyone declares situations where personal interest could cross the company’s: declaring is not a fault, concealing is.

COMMITMENT 5

Fair competition

No collusion, no market sharing, no denigration: we win on the offer, never on the arrangement.

COMMITMENT 6

Accurate books

Every entry reflects a real transaction: accurate books, records kept, no off-book accounts — the basis of investor and State confidence.

02 · ANTI-CORRUPTION

The anti-corruption framework

A rule without a mechanism is a wish. Five mechanisms make zero tolerance effective, drawing on recognised international standards (OHADA, EITI, established anti-bribery frameworks).

MECHANISM 1

Map the risks

Exposed situations — permits, customs, public procurement, local hiring — are identified and reviewed regularly: protect first where the risk is real.

MECHANISM 2

Know your third parties

Prior screening of partners, agents and suppliers: beneficial ownership, reputation, sanctions. No contract with a third party we cannot name.

MECHANISM 3

Record and trace

Gift and hospitality register, written rationale for sensitive decisions, four-eyes on payments: traceability makes fraud expensive.

MECHANISM 4

Train and repeat

Everyone is trained on the rules at hiring and regularly after — with concrete Chadian cases, not abstract slides.

MECHANISM 5

Sanction without exception

Any proven breach is sanctioned, whatever the rank. A rule enforced half the time is not a rule.

03 · HUMAN RIGHTS

Human rights & working conditions

Our operations take place in inhabited territories. We refer to the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights.

PRINCIPLE 1

Decent work

No child labour, no forced labour — at our sites or our subcontractors'. Written contracts, wages paid on time, hours counted.

PRINCIPLE 2

Health & safety

Nobody should get hurt for a barrel: equipment provided, right to stop work respected, incidents analysed without blame — see our HSE commitments.

PRINCIPLE 3

Communities respected

Consultation before siting, written commitments, grievances handled: details on the Communities page.

PRINCIPLE 4

Proportionate security

Site protection respects people's rights: no disproportionate force, and security contractors are bound to the same rules by contract.

PRINCIPLE 5

Non-discrimination

Hiring and promotion on merit: neither origin, gender nor affiliation enters the decision — and team diversity is a tracked objective.

04 · SUPPLIERS

What we expect from suppliers and partners

Our value chain engages our responsibility. These expectations will be captured in a supplier charter annexed to contracts.

EXPECTATION 1

Compliance

Chadian law and OHADA rules respected, licences current, taxes in order: a partner's compliance protects the whole chain.

EXPECTATION 2

Same ethical rules

Our anti-corruption and human-rights requirements extend to suppliers and their own subcontractors — an ethics clause will appear in every contract.

EXPECTATION 3

HSE aligned

EnerTchad's safety and environmental standards apply on our sites to every intervening company, with no double standard.

EXPECTATION 4

Transparency

Beneficial ownership declared, subcontracting disclosed, justifiable prices: we do not work with opaque structures.

EXPECTATION 5

Real local content

At equal competence we favour Chadian companies and help them build capacity — local content is an award criterion, not a slogan.

05 · SPEAK-UP CHANNEL

Reporting a concern

Anyone — employee, supplier, neighbour, third party — may report in good faith a breach of the rules on this page: corruption, fraud, harm to people or the environment, conflict of interest.

HOW

Two simple routes

In writing to contact@enertchad.com (subject “Ethics alert”) or via the contact form. A dedicated confidential channel will be set up with the corporate bodies.

CONFIDENTIALITY

Identity protected

Reports are handled by a small number of people; the reporter’s identity is not disclosed to the persons concerned.

NO RETALIATION

No sanction for good-faith reports

Reporting honestly — even if the facts are not confirmed — exposes you to no adverse measure: any retaliation would itself be a breach.

HANDLING

Acknowledged, examined, answered

Every alert gets an acknowledgement, a documented review and an answer on the outcome, within a reasonable, stated timeframe.

ETHICS · SECURITY

Guarded sites, guarded rights.

Oil facilities in the Sahel will be protected — that is a reality, not a taboo. The Voluntary Principles on Security and Human Rights (VPSHR), the sector’s reference, frame that protection so it never turns against the neighbouring communities.

BEFORE DEPLOYING

Security and human-rights risk assessment site by site: actual threats, local context, history of tensions. The arrangement is sized to the risk — not to a show of force.

RULES OF ENGAGEMENT

Every force, public or private, operating around our sites is briefed to the same rules: proportionate use of force, as a last resort, VPSHR clauses in every guarding contract, documented training.

ACCOUNTING FOR IT

Any security incident involving third parties is documented, reviewed and accessible to the community grievance mechanism: no report without a dated answer. Security is controlled like everything else: by the record.
